One Local Government One Idea (OLOI)

The "One Local Government One Idea (OLOI)" program is an innovative initiative that has been actively implemented statewide in Kerala. This program focuses on identifying specific challenges faced by local self-government bodies (LSGIs) and developing creative and effective solutions to address them. The success of this program can be attributed to the expertise and dedication of Dr. Jijo P. U., who plays a pivotal role in providing valuable insights and guidance.

Under the leadership and guidance of Dr. A. N. Manoharan, the program has enlisted the active participation of students from the Geology department. These students are actively involved in fieldwork and data collection, specifically for the estimation of mineral contents in water sources across 14 Local Self-Government Institutions (LSGIs) in Kerala.

The involvement of students from the Geology department showcases the college's strong commitment to applied research for the betterment of local communities. Here's an elaboration of various aspects of this initiative:

1. OLOI Program's Objectives: The primary aim of the OLOI program is to foster innovation at the local level. It recognizes that local self-government bodies often face unique challenges that require tailored solutions. By identifying and addressing these challenges, the program seeks to improve the overall functioning and effectiveness of LSGIs.

5. Community Betterment: The program's emphasis on applied research for the betterment of local communities is commendable. By addressing issues related to water quality and mineral content, the initiative directly impacts the health and well-being of residents in the 14 LSGIs in Kerala.

6. Local Impact: The program's statewide implementation ensures that it reaches a broad spectrum of local self-government bodies. Each LSGI may have unique challenges, and the program's adaptability allows it to address these issues effectively.

7. Knowledge Transfer: The involvement of students in real-world projects fosters knowledge transfer and practical learning. It also strengthens the link between academic institutions and local communities.

In summary, the "One Local Government One Idea (OLOI)" program in Kerala is a comprehensive initiative aimed at addressing local challenges through innovative solutions. Dr. Jijo P. U., Dr. A. N. Manoharan, and students from the Geology department are all integral parts of this program, working together to create positive changes in the 14 Local Self-Government Institutions and, by extension, the lives of the local residents they serve.
